AWISCO Trade Show Hosts Future Welders

(Maspeth, NY) • AWISCO's annual trade show took place last month and saw over 750 customers come out to view new products and demonstrations by AWISCO vendors. In addition, a group of 22 future welders and four faculty from New York City's School of Technical Education visited to learn about welding processes, equipment and supplies. "AWISCO is committed to developing young welding talent and helping to fill the void in welding professionals that our country is experiencing," states President Lloyd Robinson. Frank Gorglione, the students' welding teacher, added, "This is the best thing that has happened to these young people in a long time."
